FIRM DESCRIPTION

Eckhardt Trading Company was founded in 1991 by William Eckhardt in Chicago. Eckhardt is a research driven investment manager with a systematic, technical and evolutionary approach to global markets. The manager employs a variety of short term and pattern recognition strategies with an average trade length of under 10 days. Since its founding, the firm has prioritised ongoing research and development, with a dedicated research team that has been working together for more than a decade. William Eckhardt has been a pioneer in the systematic space since the 1980's, culminating in a research partnership with the University of Chicago.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE & STRATEGY DESCRIPTION

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long-term capital growth. Please refer to the latest prospectus and the relevant key investor information document(s) of the Fund ("KIID") for more information. Documents can be found at www.investcorp-tages.com.

The strategy uses market volatility as a key metric to identify and capture alpha by trading several diversifying models across multiple time horizons and volatility regimes. Eckhardt's unique analysis and understanding of volatility characteristics and positioning/sentiment results in strategies across four system groups: 1) Short-term volatility trend captures price changes across short-term time frames in periods of changing volatility; 2) Pattern recognition uses proprietary models to seek contrarian profit opportunities during periods of consolidating or reversing markets; 3) Risk-off alpha systems aim to capture alpha in periods of higher volatility, particularly in equity markets, and 4) Sentiment Alpha which use positioning/sentiment metrics to identify both contrarian and early trend opportunities. The program also uses different sets of signals to trade subsets of commodities and market sectors where Eckhardt has identified additional alpha to be captured. The Eckhardt program is based on 40 years of pioneering research from Bill Eckhardt and his team, applying evolutionary computing and risk-based utility theory with in-depth volatility analysis. The current portfolio has an average holding period of less than 10 days.

COMMENTARY

Non-trend systems were the best performers in October as many markets reversed course mid-month driven by unfulfilled optimism that central banks would begin to moderate or pivot away from monetary tightening measures. Trend Neutral systems worked well and made gains in every traded sector except metals. Volatility Select systems made offsetting gains in equity indices. In a strong year for trend, these systems are providing the intended diversification.

Many of the trend systems, caught in the reversals, experienced small givebacks as equity indices rallied, the US dollar fell, and bond yields stopped rising, albeit temporarily. Sector-based trend systems were the exception and generated some gains in equity indices and soft markets.

Currencies from the long side vs USD yielded some short-term gains. Short positions in soft markets were a bright spot for trend systems as cotton and coffee prices fell amid recession fears and the effect of a strong US dollar.

Grain markets were choppy and accumulated small losses, driven by back-and-forth Ukraine-Russia export negotiations. Energy market gains were on the long side of heating oil and gas oil as prices rose in anticipation of a colder winter and supply constraints. Natural gas and gasoline markets were more difficult as traders attempted to weigh better than expected inflation data against persistently hawkish central banks.

(sub fund of Tages International Funds ICAV)

October 2022

INVESTCORP-TAGES

RISK GLOSSARY

Credit and Counterparty Risk: A counterparty may fail in paying the proceeds of sale for assets sold by the Sub-Fund or may fail in delivering securities purchased by the Sub-Fund. The Sub-Fund may also incur the risk that a counterparty may fail to settle a transaction in accordance with its terms and conditions because the contract is not legally enforceable or because it does not accurately reflect the intention of the parties or because of a dispute over the terms of the contract (whether or not bona fide) or because of a credit or liquidity problem, thus causing the Sub-Fund to suffer a loss.

Derivatives and Leverage Risk: The Sub-Fund may use derivatives as a means of gaining indirect exposure to a specific asset or as part of a strategy designed to reduce exposure to other risks, such as interest rate or currency risk. Whilst this is intended to help the Sub-Fund to manage risk or to take investment positions more efficiently or effectively than could be done otherwise, derivatives can involve the use of debt to finance the purchase of assets (leverage) and the risk of higher volatility, especially if some of the expected offsetting positions between long and short investments do not work as expected, and the Sub-Fund may be exposed to additional risks and costs as a result.

Short Selling Risk: The Sub-Fund may create synthetic short positions through the use of derivatives. Short positions behave differently to long positions; for example, the Sub-Fund can come under pressure to close out short positions at short notice and before an offsetting long position can mature. This can create unexpected losses from positions that might otherwise have been seen as low risk or well hedged. For a more detailed explanation of risks, please refer to the "Special Considerations and Risk Factors" section of the prospectus.

INDICES

The indices shown on page 1 are provided solely for information purposes and are not performance benchmarks. Investors should not consider any index to be a performance benchmark for the Fund, nor should investors conclude that the Fund will or will not be correlated with an index. The Fund may invest in financial instruments and strategies not included or represented in the indices, and the performance and tax consequences of investment in the instruments represented by an index and an investment in the Fund may be, and in many cases is likely to be, materially different. Performance represented by an index is subject to a variety of material distortions, and investment in individual alternative investment funds involve material risks that are not typically reflected by an index.

S&P 500 Index: The S&P 500 Index is a market-value-weighted index of 500 stocks that are traded on the NYSE, AMEX, and NASDAQ. The weightings make each company's influence on the index performance directly proportional to that company's market value.

US Broad Investment-Grade Bond Index: The FTSE US Broad Investment-Grade Bond Index (USBIG) measures the performance of US Dollar-denominated bonds issued in the US investment-grade bond market. Introduced in 1985, the index covers US Treasury, government sponsored, collateralized, and corporate debt providing a reliable representation of the US investment-grade bond market.
